

The fight for the internet has just begun. To allow huge corporations and the oligarchy that is the Trump administration to control the internet is the antithesis of freedom and of what America stands for. The free and open exchange of ideas has always been a hallmark of the United States. The free and open internet is the way that ideas are exchanged. To allow a few monopolistic corporations to control this in the name of allowing them to make more money on the back of the American citizen is abhorrent.

Do not repeal net neutrality rules. The very spirit of The United States hangs in the balance.
